

WHAT MATTERS MOST

Information for adults

Support children and young people to get creative and share what matters to them. Their submissions will help shape our work at the Commission for Children and Young People (the Commission) and every entry goes into a prize draw.

what

We're giving Victorians under 25 the chance to tell us what's important to them and what needs to change to make things better. They can do this by writing, drawing, recording a video or audio, or something else creative!

We use this information to advocate for changes to services and laws that affect young people. Read more about what we do to support the rights of children and young people. how

Children and young people can submit their stories or ideas on our website, or send their entry and consent form in via email to engage@ccyp.vic.gov.au.

Find out more and submit online.

Closing date: 27 June 2025

Why take part?

Too often, decisions about children and young people are made for and about them without listening to their voices.

With this project, the Commission will use children and young people's voices to inform the issues we focus on and the solutions we put forward when we talk to leaders and government.

Helpful resources

Use these resources to help spread the word and support children and young people to take part:

What will we do with submissions?

With consent, the Commission might share these submissions on our social media, website and in other documents. This will help us to inspire others, and push for change.

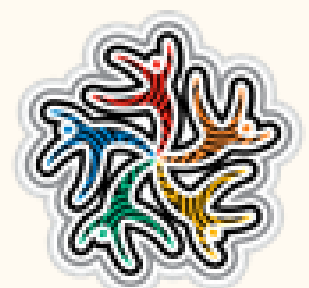

How do we protect privacy?

We will only share submissions publicly if we have received consent. Read more about how the Commission protects privacy.
